About me

My desire to better myself academically, improve on my career prospects and contribute to development globally. Like any developing country, India is overwhelmed by socio- economic problems such as poverty, under-distribution of resources, which affects its development. PGDM (Rural Management) enabled me to contribute to my country because of its interdisciplinary approach. My ultimate goal is to become a Rural Development professional and gain employment at a level where I can become the reason for billions of smile. I have developed all the social and management skills that are required to serve the Rural and Urban India.
